

Are your walls a blank slate Or a clutter Of collages? Your walls talk - figure Out what they're saying!

1. Your walls are...
 - a Covered with photographs of everyone you love, as well as pictures and/or posters of your favorite actors, actresses, bands, etc.
 - b Covered with your own drawings, paintings, and stuff you made in school.
 - c Pretty bare.
2. If a friend walks into your room and starts a sentence with Wow, the rest of the sentence might be...
 - a I can't believe you still have this wacky picture of me on your bulletin board.
 - b Did you paint that picture yourself?
 - c I need to buy you a poster!
3. If you could do your walls over again, you would...
 - a Why do them over? Just add MORE photos and posters!
 - b Paint a mural on the biggest one.
 - c Spackle the nail holes and paint all the walls white
4. If you could have just one thing hanging on your wall, it would be...
 - a A precious photo of someone you love.
 - b A mirror.
 - c One thing? That's too much!

HERE'S HOW YOU SCORED:

Mostly As: Your walls are there to give a shout-out to family, friends, and people you admire. You love to be reminded of the people close to you. They inspire you! They make a smile break out all over your face. And when you feel a little blue, you can stare at the pics of your peeps and perk right up.

Mostly Bs: You're so creative, you inspire yourself? That's right: You enjoy seeing the fruits of your labor all around you. You like keeping your creative juices flowing at all times, even when you're about to fall asleep. I bet that sometimes your mind is racing so fast with so many projects, you have a hard time falling asleep!

Mostly Cs: You have a minimalist approach to room decor that probably reflects your inner calm. You don't feel the need to have your whole life displayed because, for you, it's all about what's inside. You're just as creative as As and Bs, but you don't wear it on your sleeve - or on your walls!
